GEORGE WILSON

Young Business Man of Gracey
Dies of Typhoid Fever.

George Wilson, a son of Mr. R. H. Wilson, of Gracey, died Monday night, of typhoid fever, at his home in Gracey. He was 23 years old and leaves a widow and one child. His wife was formerly Miss Mabel Cox, a daughter of Marshal H. H. Cox.

Mr. Wilson was a member of the merchandise firm of Wilson Bros.

and was a popular young business man, held in high esteem by all knew him. He was a member of West Union Baptist Church and was an upright and exemplary young man. Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon and the burial took place in the Roach burying ground near Gracey.

FARMER FALLS

From Wagon And Wheels Pass
Over His Head.

Thomas Mimms, a prominent farmer of the Trenton neighborhood, fell under a loaded wagon, which he was driving, Monday afternoon and sustained perhaps fatal injuries. The wagon passed over his head. He has been unconscious ever since the accident. Mr. Mimms was taken to Nashville for the application of the X-ray.

At Home of Daughter.

Mrs. Mary J. Brandon died Tuesday at her home at 306 Jesup avenue, aged 74 years. She removed to the city from Cerulean Springs nine years ago and lived with her daughter, Mrs. T. J. Guthrie. She was a member of the Baptist Church. The body was taken to Cerulean Springs for interment.

ESQ. MYERS FALLS DEAD.

End Comes Without Warning
To Aged And Prominent Citizen.

AT HIS HOME NEAR KELLY.

Long Prominent In County Affairs And a Leader In Church Work.

Esquire Seth H. Myers, one of the oldest and most prominent citizens of North Christian, dropped dead at his home near Kelly, Tuesday afternoon at four o'clock.

He had been in poor health lately, but was able to be about and had attended to his light duties about the place as usual during the day. In the afternoon he complained of not feeling well, but declined to send for a doctor. About four o'clock he was taken with a sudden sinking spell and died in a few minutes. His death was caused by rheumatism of the heart.

Esq. Myers was born in Christian county and was 80 years old last April. He leaves an aged widow, three sons and three daughters. His sons are H. C. Myers, S. T. Myers and David F. Myers, the latter of Pacatello, Iowa. The daughters are Mrs. L. Boyd, Mrs. H. T. Fruitt and Mrs. Delia Johnson.

He was an active member at Dogwood Chapel, the Baptist church near his home. He enjoyed the respect of all who knew him, as an upright, honest man and a good citizen. For many years he was a justice of the peace and made a useful member of the Fiscal Court.

The funeral arrangements have not been announced, depending on whether or not his son in Idaho will come.

A short while ago Esq. Myers placed an order for the construction of a concrete mausoleum on his lot in the family burying ground near Kelly and his wishes will be carried out. The burial will be temporary until the permanent resting place can be prepared for his body.

A VERDICT OF GUILTY

Quickly Returned in Embezzlement Trial Against R. H.
DeTreville.

THE DEFENDANT IS IN JAIL

Pending Motions For New Trial
And an Appeal to Higher Court.

After deliberating for one hour Tuesday morning, the jury in the case of Richard H. DeTreville, on trial for embezzlement in declaring unearned dividends in the Acme Mills & Elevator Company's management, brought in a verdict of guilty and fixed the defendant's punishment at 2½ years in the penitentiary.

The following were the jurors: W. M. Jordan, foreman; J. B. Haddock, Otto Robinson, Volney West, Albert McReynolds, James Dickerson, C. C. McElroy, Bill Ray, Walter Tresch, Sterling Langley, James Johnson and D. I. West.

The jury was polled and all answered that it was their verdict. It is said that the entire jury agreed on the first ballot that the verdict should be guilty, but there was some difference of opinion as to the length of the sentence.

Mr. DeTreville received the verdict with composure. He was taken to jail, where the law requires that he must remain pending any motions for a new trial, or during an appeal, which will no doubt be taken if a motion for a new trial is overruled by Judge Hanberry.

The trial occupied eight days and was hard fought, though the tedious character of much of the testimony made the proceedings uninteresting and the attendance was not large. There were several indictments and one of them, tried on a different count, at the last court resulted in a mistrial, one juror hanging the jury.

Speeches were made for the defense by Hon. Herman Southall, Judge C. H. Bush and Judge T. P. Cook and for the prosecution by Mr. S. Y. Trimble and Commonwealth's Attorney Smith, the arguments taking up the entire day Monday.

During the closing speech by Mr. Smith, Mrs. DeTreville, who sat by her husband's side, fainted and fell from her chair and had to be taken from the court room.

Mr. DeTreville, who was president of the defunct mill company for seven years preceding 1909 was owner of a large block of stock voted him by the directors when the company was reorganized and its capital stock largely increased in 1904. He is charged with declaring a dividend in December, 1908, on borrowed money which, the last of several dividends, exhausted the mill's ability to borrow and the following May disclosed the fact that its affairs were hopelessly involved and that the mill owed over $200,000. The stockholders tried to save the plant and Mr. R. H. Holland was put at the head and made some money that summer and by securing concessions from creditors the mill was bonded for $190,000, the stockholders buying the bonds to the extent of half their holdings. In 1910 interest could not be paid and the collapse came. The bond-holders bought the mill in at about $60,000 and the $250,000 plant stands idle, the entire stock and 60 per cent. of the bond holders' money gone.

Indictments were returned on several counts against R. H. DeTreville, President, and J. B. Galbreath, Secretary. The indictments were found jointly but separate trials were demanded.

AMUSEMENTS

According to the exchanges of other nearby cities, "The Stampede" to be presented at Holland's Opera House to night is perhaps the masterpiece of one of America's youngest and most talented playwrights, Cecil B. De Mille, who has to his credit such notable plays as "The Return of Peter Grimm" in which David Warfield is appearing this season, "Strongheart" which brought fame and fortune to Robert Edson, Nat Goodwin's success of a few seasons ago, "The Genius" and several other well known plays.

"The Stampede" is not a wild Western melodrama, but a fitting companion to "The Squawman," "The Virginian," and other similar plays that have delighted thousands in past seasons. It has been mounted with a massive and complete scenic production, with every little attention to detail and lighting effects usually given a Belasco production.

Cylindrical Lightning.

What appears to be a well-attested instance of lightning in the form of a cylinder, since it is reported in an Italian scientific journal by Prof. Ignazio Galli, occurred at Rome on January 3. At seven o'clock in the evening, when a brilliant discharge of lightning occurred over the city, a glowing cylinder three decimeters in diameter issued from a wall at the point of attachment of a telephone wire. It passed horizontally over the table containing the telephone, and between two persons seated close together, and then went out of an open door. A few seconds later an explosion was heard. None of the persons present felt any effect from the presence of the cylinder, which was silvery white, with a slightly bluish or violet tinge, and no noise or odor was detected during its presence, which lasted only a few seconds.

Jack Daniel Dead.

Lynchburg, Tenn., Oct. 11.—Jack Daniel, one of the most noted distillers in the United States, died at his home, two miles south of this place, at 2 o'clock this afternoon, aged 63 years. Mr. Daniel, until recent years, was owner and manager of the Jack Daniel distillery, manufacturing the celebrated No. 7 brand of Lincoln county whisky. This distillery is now owned by Lem Motlow, a nephew of the deceased, who disposed of the property a few years ago on account of declining health. For about forty years Mr. Daniel was engaged in the manufacture of whisky in this section and, although he spent his money lavishly and contributed liberally to charitable enterprises, he died possessed of an estate valued at $250,000.

Mr. Daniel was a bachelor. He is survived by a brother, Wylie Daniel of Lincoln county, and a sister, Mrs. Bettie Conner of Lynchburg, and numerous more distant relatives.

Two Runaway Boys.

Madisonville, Ky., Oct. 11.—Rufus Whittinghill and Huston Hanger, aged respectively eighteen and fourteen, disappeared from their homes here late Saturday. The boys are known to have left together, but their whereabouts are unknown. The parents of the boys are much excited and seeking to locate them. Mrs. Hanger, mother of the youngest, has indefinite information that her boy is in Nashville. They dropped hints among their companions that Florida was their destination.

Hit Booker T.

New York, Oct. 11.—Harry Ulrich, who was arrested several months ago on a charge of assaulting Booker T. Washington, will be tried in General Sessions Court here next Monday. The time for the trial was fixed to-day. An Assistant District Attorney applied to the court to-day for several subpoenas in connection with the case. Ulrich is at liberty in $500 bail.

Advertising Pays.

Rockport, Ky., Oct. 9.—Miss Bessie Southard, aged thirty-eight, the daughter of Mrs. Bryson Southard, of Centertown, Ohio county, was selected by H. C. King, Chief Orchardist for State Senator Dunlap, of Savoy, Ill., to be his wife over 526 other applicants.

King's wife died last spring and the position held by him required that he be a married man. Upon the advise of friends he advertised for a wife and in reply to the "ad" he received 527 replies from women, who were willing to become his bride.

NOT ROMANTIC BUT SAVING

Men Do Not Call Taxicabs Until They Know Women's Toilet Is Nearly Completed.

"I'm just pinning in my braid," said the young woman who had been called to the telephone. "Oh, about twenty minutes, I guess."

"That is a trick," she said, "that came in with taxicabs. A man going anywhere with a woman in an old-fashioned cab would have squandered half a week's salary before he would telephone to her about the stage of her toilet. But with taxicabs it is different. They eat up money faster than the old cabs, and it is nothing unusual now for an escort to ask how much longer it will take to get ready. Within fifteen or twenty minutes of the time set he calls a taxicab and gets here just as you are going downstairs. Not very romantic, no; but it is sensible and saves money to get married on."

Who Was There That You Knew?

In the shadowy ranks of those who marched to defeat or death or victory fifty years ago in the mighty conflict that convulsed this great nation, is there a father or grandfather or uncle of yours? Would you like to see a photograph of him in that long ago day of his youth—a photograph that he never knew was taken? ### Two at Luncheon

By Catherine Coope

"5098 John!" Mildred's tones went swiftly toward central.

"Hello! Is that you Rex? Yes; Rex—our table at the Tower has been removed so I will be at the one in the second alcove. And Rex, do you mind if I make it one-thirty instead of one? I am in an awful hurry this morning, so goodby! Oh—Rex," Mildred's tone had assumed a coaxing note, "I have on my lavender frock today. Goodby!"

The girl hung up the receiver hurriedly, then glanced at her neat little lavender clad figure in the long mirror and smiled. The finishing touch would be the few well chosen flowers she knew her brother would bring to her. Rex was unusual for a brother and insisted on these little extravagances for his sister.

Mildred reached up for the fluffy lavender chiffon that floated over her hat and let it drop down across her face. Thus, with a wonderfully beautiful face partially concealed Mildred made her way to the shopping districts.

The shops were attractive and when Mildred finally dragged herself away it was to find that she would be perhaps ten minutes late for luncheon with her brother.

"Brothers are easily pacified," thought Mildred as she swung through the door of the Tower.

She stood for a moment while her glance played full upon the group of men standing about the entrance hall. Covert, open and swift admiration jumped into many a pair of eyes as she stood there apparently unconscious of the picture she presented; the soft mist of her chiffon veil only added a subtle touch to her beauty.

"The one in the corner," was Mildred's inward decision, "is very good looking."

As she passed on into the smaller luncheon room she threw a hurried glance at the man in the corner who had half risen at her entrance.

Without another glance Mildred went to her table.

Rex had arrived but had vanished; the fact of his having been there was evidenced in an exquisite corsage bouquet which lay on the table in the alcove.

"Rex is extravagant today," murmured Mildred, picking up the flowers preparatory to pinning them on. "Three beautiful orchids and my favorite—lily of the valley." She sniffed at them and pinned them in place. "I suppose Rex has gone off to have a smoke—since I was so late," she mused and glanced through the menu.

Rex had come—she looked up. No!

The man whom she had seen in the hall was seating himself calmly opposite her. She looked across at him, frankly disturbed; her eyes then encountered those of the waiter and indignation should have crushed him, but there was on use trying to explain to a man who scarcely understood English that he had given away a reserved seat. She looked desperately around for Rex.

"You—like the flowers?"

The man opposite had spoken the fateful words.

An icy chill swept over Mildred, leaving her strangely helpless.

She had assumed that the flowers were hers—that the table was hers! Instead of that she had stepped into one of those terrible intrigues. Probably the man whose eyes she found so disconcerting supposed that she had answered some personal in the newspapers.

Because, in her discomfiture, she had not found her voice, Mildred unpinned the flowers from her dress and put them on the table.

All through the performance the man opposite kept his eyes steadily upon her and a whimsical smile had drawn in his face.

A flush swept suddenly into Mildred's cheeks and irritation at its onslaught made the eyes she turned scornfully upon him flash fire. She made a movement as if to leave the table but at that moment the waiter was standing beside them.

Something in the eyes of the man opposite told Mildred that if she attempted to leave now he would command her to stay. Hoping desperately that her brother would arrive in time to prevent a scene, Mildred sat back and only dropped the concealing chiffon of her veil about her face. She glanced covertly at the man while he looked carefully over the menu. There was something familiar about him and when her eyes rested directly on him he looked up and caught her.

"Do you care for a green salad before or after the joint, Miss Holland?" he asked.

The long flower pin which Mildred held in her fingers snapped, so sudden was the sound of her name.

"I—I—prefer it after," she found herself answering.

He went back to the menu and after giving the order for luncheon he dismissed the waiter and looked across at Mildred.

Despite her anger and her desire to petrify him with a glance, Mildred lost all control of her expression and realized with inward horror that she was smiling in a shy and exceedingly foolish fashion.

"Won't you please put the flowers—where they were?"

Again Mildred found herself obeying him but she felt that her voice would return presently and that she would give this very handsome man opposite her a few well-toned words.

"That lavender cloudy thing—it will be in the way soon?" he suggested.

Mildred put the veil up over her hat and now raised her head proudly and looked straight at him. All the force of infinite scorn at herself and toward him blazed in her wide eyes.

David Gray started—perhaps from the anger in her eyes and perhaps from mere fear at the beauty of her face.

"Don't look at me—like that," he said. "Rex Holland and I are

She stood for a moment while her glance played full upon the group of men standing about the entrance hall. Covert, open and swift admiration jumped into many a pair of eyes as she stood there apparently unconscious of the picture she presented; the soft mist of her chiffon veil only added a subtle touch to her beauty.

"The one in the corner," was Mildred's inward decision, "is very good looking."

As she passed on into the smaller luncheon room she threw a hurried glance at the man in the corner who had half risen at her entrance.

Without another glance Mildred went to her table.

Rex had arrived but had vanished; the fact of his having been there was evidenced in an exquisite corsage bouquet which lay on the table in the alcove.

"Rex is extravagant today," murmured Mildred, picking up the flowers preparatory to pinning them on. "Three beautiful orchids and my favorite—lily of the valley." She sniffed at them and pinned them in place. "I suppose Rex has gone off to have a smoke—since I was so late," she mused and glanced through the menu.

Rex had come—she looked up. No!

The man whom she had seen in the hall was seating himself calmly opposite her. She looked across at him, frankly disturbed; her eyes then encountered those of the waiter and indignation should have crushed him, but there was on use trying to explain to a man who scarcely understood English that he had given away a reserved seat. She looked desperately around for Rex.

"You—like the flowers?"

The man opposite had spoken the fateful words.

An icy chill swept over Mildred, leaving her strangely helpless.

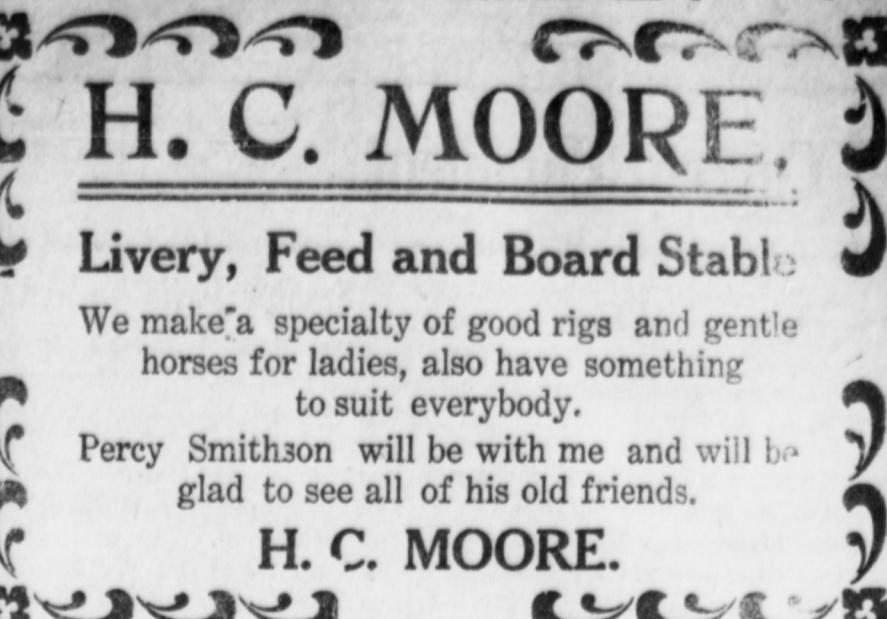

She had assumed that the flowers were hers—that the table was hers! Instead of that she had stepped into one of those terrible intrigues. Probably the man whose eyes she found so disconcerting supposed that she had answered some personal in the newspapers.

Because, in her discomfiture, she had not found her voice, Mildred unpinned the flowers from her dress and put them on the table.

All through the performance the man opposite kept his eyes steadily upon her and a whimsical smile had drawn in his face.

A flush swept suddenly into Mildred's cheeks and irritation at its onslaught made the eyes she turned scornfully upon him flash fire. She made a movement as if to leave the table but at that moment the waiter was standing beside them.

Something in the eyes of the man opposite told Mildred that if she attempted to leave now he would command her to stay. Hoping desperately that her brother would arrive in time to prevent a scene, Mildred sat back and only dropped the concealing chiffon of her veil about

POLITICAL NOTES

A Chicago girl 22 years old attempted suicide because she never had a sweetheart. She jumped into the lake and was rescued by two firemen.

Cornelius Newton Bliss, for years one of the prominent figures in national republican politics and otherwise well known as a merchant, died in New York, Tuesday.

Scarcely six hours after he had married Miss Gladys Caruthers, Second Lieutenant John R. Lynch, third cavalry, U. S. A., killed himself at Fort Sam Houston Texas. No cause is known.

The opinion is becoming fixed in the public mind that the scrap between Turkey and Italy is about like one of the smaller sized South American revolutions.

Heroic Telephone Girl.

Kathleen Lyon, the heroine of Austin, who flashed the warning of the on-rushing waters by phone to hundreds, was presented with a watch, a check for $250 and a raise in salary by her employers.

Confederate Captain Dead.

Capt. Thomas Richards, who was a member of the First Kentucky Cavalry, C. S. A., and was regarded as the best bugler in the Army of the Tennessee, died yesterday at his home at Stanford.

Muhlenberg Triplets.

Graham, Ky., Oct. 11.—Triplets, two boys and a girl, were born to Mr. and Mrs. James W. Walker, of this place, on Saturday. The boys weigh seven and six pounds, respectively, and the young lady six pounds. Mother and children are doing well. Dr. T. J. Edge was in attendance.

Lexington Primary.

The Democratic primary in Lexington resulted in the following nominations: J. Ernest Cassidy, Mayor; Thomas A. Combs, State Senator; David C. Hunter and Charles B. Nichols, State Representatives; Frank G. Ott, City Treasurer; Hogan T. Yancey, City Attorney; J. J. O'Brien, City Clerk; J. W. Guyn, City Engineer; John McElroy, City Assessor, and John Massner, City Jailer.

Cases Reassigned.

The United States Supreme Court reassigned the railroad rate cases and "bunched" them to be heard January 8, 1912. One of the cases is the L. & N. Railroad Company against the Kentucky railroad Commission. The question involved is one of State's rights.

Tuesday's Speeches.

Senator McCreary spoke at Bardwell. He compared the records of both parties. He said the Democrats had put all the beneficial laws on the statute books while the Republicans had depleted the State treasury.

Judge O'Rear, speaking at Bowling Green, charged that legislation in Kentucky had been tainted and corrupted by the influence of the lobby, which he further complained had been the recipient of official favors.

School Girl Weds.

Bowling Green, Ky., Oct. 10.—With money given her by her parents to pay her tuition in the Western Kentucky State Normal, Miss Eva Gatten, a pretty twenty-year-old girl student from Sacramento, Ky., purchased a trousseau, decided that no further education was needed except in domestic science which she would acquire in time from practical experience, and is now the wife of Clarence Blank, a well-known young business man of Central City, Ky.

$100 Reward, $100

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been unable to cure, and that is Cataract. Hall's Cataract Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Cataract being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Cataract Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Old Lady's Sage Advice.

Knoxville, Tenn.—Mrs. Mamie Towe, of 102 W. Main street, this city, says: "If you had seen me before I began to take Cardui, you would not think I was the same person. Six doctors failed to do me good, and my friends thought I would die. I could hardly get out of bed or walk a step. At last an old lady advised me to take Cardui, and now I can go most anywhere." All-ailing women need Cardui, as a gentle, refreshing tonic, especially adapted to their peculiar ailments. It is a reliable, vegetable remedy, successfully used for over 50 years. You ought to try it.

of such additional laws as will make our entire common school system more efficient and more practical.

We pledge our support to our school system and the educational institutions of the State, wisely and economically administered. Money appropriated for the education of the people is an investment and not an expense; school trustees, school boards, and all school officials should be held rigidly responsible for adequate returns on every dollar so invested. We charge the Republican party with neglect of and indifference toward our school system.

Recognizing that a large majority of the teachers of our common schools are women, and that women are now eligible to be elected school trustees, county school superintendent, and to hold office, and are frequently so elected, we favor the extension to women of suffrage in all school elections, subject to such wise regulations as to qualifications as the General Assembly may determine."

TURKEY WILL NOT YIELD

In Tripoli Without Putting Up A Fight With Them.

HORSEMAN MADE AN ATTACK.

Three Thousand Troops With Guns Tried to Steal a March but Were Discovered.

Tripoli, Oct. 10.—The Turks apparently do not intend to abandon Tripoli to the Italians without determined resistance. For several days bands of horsemen have been reconnoitering in the vicinity of Italian outposts. Several times at night they have been discovered by the searchlights of the warships and then shells drove them back again into the hills.

About one o'clock this morning a force of about 3,000 Turkish troops with field guns was discovered advancing in two columns with the evident intention of recapturing the town. A large body of natives marched with the troops and presented an admirable array. The Italian commander, however, had an intimation that such an attempt probably would be made and his men were amply prepared.

The Italian guns were well placed and the Turks were met with a heavy artillery and rifle fire to which they replied with equal energy.

Reprisals by Turkey.

Constantinople, Oct. 10.—At a cabinet council today it was decided to close all Italian industrial, financial, and scholastic establishments in Turkey, and to seize Italian steamers.

Permission has been given to Russian, Roumanian, and Bulgarian vessels loaded with grain to pass through straits, provided the grain is not discharged at Italian ports.

Wheat Case Settled.

In the case of C. L. Morgan vs. Dr. J. A. B. Word, for damages, for having sold 225 bushels of seed wheat in 1909 that failed to germinate, the jury yesterday gave the plaintiff $750. He sued for $2,500. The wheat was almost a total failure, yielding only four bushels to the acre.

School Improvement League.

The School Improvement League of the Virginia Street Public School held an interesting and well attended meeting at the Virginia school Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Chas. M. Meacham, the president, was in the chair. The principal feature was a talk on "Teeth and Their Care," by Dr. C. H. Tandy.

PIONEER GRAVEYARD

Women's League Has Begun Work For Contemplated Improvement.

The committee appointed by the Civic Improvement Committee to push the improvements on the Pioneer Graveyard have begun canvassing for subscriptions and are meeting with encouraging success.

The city has appropriated $100 and citizens are giving liberally. It is planned to erect a monument that will be 30 feet high, using the old tombstones in the base as far as possible, and surmounting it with a shaft of concrete. Bronze tablets on four sides will contain the names of all known to be buried in the old cemetery, which was used from 1810 to 1853.

EPIDEMIC OF MEASLES.

Disease Said To Prevail In Virulent Form Near Paducah.

Paducah, Ky., Oct. 9.—An epidemic of measles is threatened, and County Health Officer C. E. Kidd is preparing to take steps to prevent the malady from spreading. There are two cases in one family on the Mayfield road, near the city, and both have been isolated. The county health officer will transfer all cases to the contagious diseases hospital if any more develop. The disease is said to be in a virulent form.

Political Notes

There is no more important plank in the Democratic platform than Section Six, which commits the party to the passage of an act that will punish all corrupt practices in elections, and guarantees to every man that his vote shall be honestly counted as cast. Section Six is as follows:

"We favor the enactment of an explicit and effective corrupt practice act, which shall determine what campaign expenses shall be legitimate, and which provide for the compulsory publication in detail, under heavy penalties, of the campaign expenses of every candidate for public office."

This Section supplements Section Five, which provides for a direct primary election law, providing that all primary elections be held at public expense, so that every candidate, no matter what his wealth or station may be, shall have a chance to submit his claims to the voters of his party. Kentucky has suffered in the past from dishonest elections, and the people are demanding that these corrupt practices be stopped. The opportunity to institute this reform will come to the Democratic party after this election, because it will control both Houses of the Legislature.

Governor McCreary is heartily in favor of the passage of this law. His influence put it in the platform, and he will recommend it to the Legislature, and use all the power in his hands to give it a permanent place upon the Statute Book.

When the people know how much a man spends for his nomination and his election, and from what sources his campaign fund comes, they will be able to judge whether he is his own master, or whether he must shape his official acts to suit those who have bought his office for him. The time is past when platform pledges are lightly regarded. In this campaign no candidate for office can fail to do his duty without sacrificing his honor.

DEAD DETECTIVE WAS A WONDER

Once Gave Dinner And As A Joke Picked Pockets of All Guests.

Paris, October 11.—Armand Cochefort, the chief of the Paris detectives, just dead, was famous as an amateur pickpocket, athlete and trick performer. Strong as an ox, handy with the pistol and absolutely fearless, he never hesitated to tackle the worst criminals in their own lair. He had a particular contempt for pickpockets, when they got caught, and chaffed them unmercifully. Sometimes he would demonstrate to them that he could have done better and got away with the job.

Armand was very fond of giving dinners at his home. During one of them he picked the pocket of everyone present without being detected.

He was a big eater, and when he expected to be engaged by business over the lunch hour, he used to eat twelve hard-boiled eggs after breakfast, "to guard against faintness."

"At one time he gave a dinner to twenty persons, and at its finish had what remained of the meal brought in and ate it all, meats, vegetables, salads, sweets and cheese.

"I hope you have enough now," said one of his guests.

Mrs. Powell Almost Dead.

Dry Ridge, Ky.—"I could hardly walk across the room," says Mrs. Lydia Powell, of Dry Ridge, "before I tried Cardui. I was so poorly I was almost dead. Now, I can walk four miles and do my work with much more ease. I praise Cardui for my wonderful cure." Cardui is successful in benefiting sick women, because it is composed of ingredients, that act specifically on the womanly constitution, relieving headache, backache, irregularity, misery and distress. Only a good medicine could show such continual increase in popularity as Cardui has, for the past 50 years. Try Cardui, the woman's tonic.

"One never can eat enough," replied Armand, "and to prove it, I will now eat the candles." He grabbed one after another and devoured them, flame and all—apparently.

But that was one of his tricks. By a slight of hand manipulation he substituted at the last pieces of apples, cut to resemble candles, yet no one saw him do it.

POWER OF RICHES IS SMALL

They Cannot Give Beauty, Strength or Health to Possessor, or prolong Life.

The more experience we have of the world the more that experience should show us how little is in the power of riches; for what, indeed, truly desirable can they bestow upon us? Can they give beauty to the deformed, strength to the weak or health to the infirm? Surely if they could we should not see so many ill-favored faces haunting the assemblies of the great, nor would such numbers of feeble wretches languish in their coaches and palaces. Can they prolong their own possession, or lengthen his days who enjoys them? So far otherwise, that the sloth, the luxury, the care which attend them shorten the lives of millions and bring them with pain and misery to an untimely grave.

Where, then, is their value, if they can neither embellish nor strengthen our forms, sweeten nor prolong our lives? Again, can they adorn the mind more than the body? Do they not rather swell the heart with vanity, puff up the cheeks with pride, shut our ears to every call of virtue and our bowels to every motive of compassion.

BROKE IT TO HIM GENTLY

How the Head of Firm Learned His Cashier Had Absconded With the Money.

The cashier of a certain firm had absconded, and the head clerk was decided upon as being the proper person to acquaint the head of the firm of the fact on his arrival.

There had been a dog fight in the street and a small crowd was just dispersing when the chief's carriage dashed up.

"What's the crowd after, Jorkins?" demanded the head of the firm.

The chief clerk thought he had got a chance of breaking the news, and seized it.

"The vacancy, sir," he replied. "Vacancy?"

"Cashier, sir."

"But we want no cashier, Jorkins."

"Beg pardon, sir; but we have a vacancy for one."

"Jorkins, are you mad?"

"No, sir. That is, sir, I don't know, sir. Fact is, sir, all the cash is gone, and—and—"

"Well?"

"The cashier's gone with it, sir."

DARK SMOKE.

Funny thing about smoking! If a man were compelled to puff a good cigar with his eyes shut the operation would lose its zest. A man who had undergone a slight operation upon one of his eyes had to stay in a darkened room for a week with his optics bandaged. After a few days his doctor told him he could smoke if he liked. He jumped at the chance, and, to his amazement, found it afforded him not the slightest pleasure.

To be sure, men often smoke in the dark; but there is always the rosy glow of the lighted end to be seen and the faint outline of the cloud of smoke in the air. There is no more fun in the sightless smoke than in a saltless egg or a kiss implanted upon your own hand. What is the psychology of it?

BLIND STENOGRAPHER.

Maurice J. Myers, a blind stenographer, reported all the discussions at the conference on the treatment of the blind held last month at Exeter. Mr. Myers' notes, which were recorded on a narrow strip of paper, extended to a length of 2 1/4 miles, and contained approximately 800,000 dots. This clever shorthand writer, who can take notes at a speed of 158 words a minute, helped to formulate "the Birmingham system of embossed shorthand." He was trained at the Birmingham Royal Institution for the Blind.—Jewish Chronicle.

AMERICAN ARISTOCRACY.

"You have no aristocracy in America!" said the distinguished foreigner.

"You wrong us," replied Dustin Stax. "We have done remarkably well in that respect."

"And what is your idea of a true gentleman?"

"One who is eligible to the benefits of a gentlemen's agreement."

IT WAS THE BANK'S MISTAKE

Credit Man Tells of Experience That Has Made Him More Optimistic With Bills.

"Here's one for you," said the hotel cashier to the credit man, handing him a bill. "Now, let's see you get that."

"That fellow's quite all right," replied the credit man. "I know because of an experience I had with him once. One of his checks came to me from the bank marked 'no funds.' I called him in and proceeded to rip him up the back. He listened until I had said my say."

"Now," he returned, "I am going to make you apologize. I am going to prove to you that I have funds in that bank." I was dubious and he called up the bank and had some conversation with the cashier. Then he told me to call up the cashier myself. The man at the other end of the wire was on his hands and knees. He explained that the other had been keeping two accounts with them, one marked 'special.' A deposit had been made in his name, but through inadvertence it had been credited to the personal account instead of the 'special.' The check had been drawn on the latter account. That is the only case I have known where a bank made such an error, but since that experience I have learned to approach every account with optimism, and you would be surprised how much it helps in the collection of bills."

THUGS WORKED IN RIVER.

A curious form of crime has just been brought to light in Delhi. A gang of bad characters have been making a practice of hiding in the river Jumna and pulling down into the water boys and women wearing gold and silver jewelry who go to the river to bathe. Recently several boys and women disappeared, and their bodies have not been recovered.

A few days ago a Marwari woman, wearing heavy gold jewelry, while bathing was suddenly caught by somebody from below the water. She raised a cry, and two of her companions caught hold of her and prevented her from being dragged down. Help arrived and a Mohammedan was caught in the water. He was arrested. Lately on one day five boys similarly disappeared; two were the sons of city jewelers.

THIS BRIDEGRoOM SAT DOWN

Didn't See Why He Should Stand
While the Bride Plighted Her
Troth at the Altar.

They strolled into the parsonage of a suburban town in New Jersey and asked to get married. They were from back in the country and both seemed anxious to get the ceremony over and done with and get back to their work. Thrifty young people of German blood, they were, with no time to waste on foolishness.

The minister called in his wife and servant to witness the ceremony and proceeded promptly. He had the couple stand before him, asked the usual preliminary questions, and then got from the bridegroom the pledge that tied him for life to the bride.

He had just started with "Do you take this man," when he was astonished to see the bridegroom walk over to a sofa and calmly sit down.

"What do you mean by that?" asked the minister. "Don't you want to finish the ceremony?"

"Sure," said the bridegroom. "But you're through with me. I've said my part, and I'll sit here until she says hers. I'm tired."

"You'll come back here and stand up until it is over," said the parson in some heat.

The man got up and came back. His bride had not minded his action in the least. After they had gone the minister spoke his mind:

"The woman is going to get the worst of that matrimonial bargain."

And for once his wife agreed with him.

WEAKEST "GO TO THE WALL"

Universal Law of Nature for All Species Is the Survival of the Fittest.

"In a community of foxes the most cunning fox would survive; in a pack of wolves the wildest and strongest wolf; while in a community of ants, those that had the least power of intelligent co-operation would be the first to become extinct. And it is equally obvious that the interpretation of the world selection must vary in every grade of life, with every rise in intelligence—intelligence being, in normal circumstances, the prime factor which determines selection. Our garden roses would soon degenerate were not the selective intelligence of the gardener brought into play. Hence, intelligence whether self-determining or brought into play from without, is obviously one of the conditions which determine fitness. But there are even higher determining conditions than intelligence, for intelligence itself may manifest itself in mere cunning. The qualities of prudence, temperance, fidelity, sympathy, co-operation, self-sacrifice for a common good—all these are amongst the determining conditions of fitness, for a people that has these qualities will always be able to hold its own against an imprudent, untemperate, unfaithful, unsympathetic and selfish people."—Ramsden Balmforth.

Friendship.

Some one once asked Kingsley what was the secret of his strong, joyous life, and he answered: "I had a friend." If every evil man is a center of contagion, every good man is a center of healing. He provides an environment in which others can see God. Goodness creates an atmosphere for other souls to be good. It is a priestly garment that has virtue even for the finger that touches it. The earth has sweet souls and winsome lives, and Christ-like characters to be found in it. The choice of friends is, therefore, one of the most serious affairs in life, just because a man becomes molded into the likeness of what he loves in his friend.—Hugh Black.

Her Reason.

"Why did you lead me on to propose to you?" he asked, on the night of the dance. "Why did you encourage me if you intended to refuse me?"

"You do me a great injustice," she answered. "What have I ever done to make you think that I loved you?"

"When you danced with the other men," he replied, "you kept them at arms' length. But when you danced with me you leaned on my shoulder—you almost let me carry you."

"That was to keep my feet off the floor so that you wouldn't step on my toes. You are a very bum dancer, you know. Have you no other reasons?"

Really Interesting People.

Stevenson says he once sailed on a steamer which turned out to be a ship with no style on, but with plenty of sailors to talk to. "Plenty of sailors to talk to" suggests most anything but that "you can always tell a man by the company he keeps." The great man loves to rub elbows with what too often are unjustly called the common people, people who live their own queer way regardless of man-made laws or the whims and edicts of society. The common people are the only people who, wise or foolish, are natural and interesting.

Natural History.

"Why, sir," said Mr. Dustin Stax, "do you call me an amphibian?"

"I refer to your method of capitalization."

"But I have developed the resources of the land."

"Yes. But when you get tired of the land you take to water."

ELKS' HOME LOCATED

Lot on Corner Ninth and Water Is Finally Selected.

CONTRACT TO FORBES CO.

Financial Arrangements Have Been Made and Work to Begin at Once.

At an enthusiastic meeting held by the Elks Tuesday night the final report of the Building Committee was submitted and adopted by a rising vote, with hardly a dissenting vote.

The committee reported that it had an option on the lot known as the Gish property, had devoted much time and work to the preparation of plans and had received bids and was prepared to recommend the plans and let the contract if the Lodge approved. Moreover the financial arrangements had about been concluded and there appeared no obstacle in the way of proceeding at once to the erection of the house. The report was adopted and the committee was authorized to proceed. All necessary steps will be taken without a moment's delay and the new Home will be completed by Feb. 1, 1912.

The contract has been let to the Forbes Manufacturing Co. for $15,800, to which must be added the heating plant, electric fixtures and the furnishings. The entire cost is estimated at $21,000 and the lot $6,500, making the Home cost $27,500. The Lodge has $7,500 on hand, the members have agreed to take about the same amount in second mortgage bonds and the rest will be borrowed on first mortgage bonds. The debt will be rapidly retired.

The Lodge lost heavily by the fire last March, and now that a new Home is to be built, a modern and up-to-date building, there is general rejoicing among the 275 members of this prosperous order.

The site is less than a square from Main street and the lot fronts 92 feet on Ninth street, fronting north. The building will be 50 feet front, with bay windows adding 10 feet more to its width. It will have elegant club rooms on the first floor and the Lodge room and eight bedrooms on the second floor.

It will be of brick and stone, with hardwood finishings. There will be a commodious basement under most of the building and a broad veranda in front.

The frame residence now on the lot is for sale and will be removed as quickly as possible and work begun as soon as the lot is cleared.

The Home will be closed for four months and reopened in the new quarters, it is planned, on the Lodge's anniversary, Feb. 14th.

The meeting Tuesday night took largely of the nature of a "love feast." There had been differences of opinion as to location and on other questions, but all differences have apparently disappeared and the members are pulling together for the new Home. Speeches were made by many members, all in the same spirit of harmony and good fellowship.

Patrol System for Feud Section.

Jackson, Ky., Oct. 9.—A conference, to be participated in by representatives from all the mountain counties of Eastern Kentucky, will be held here to-night, at which it is proposed to establish a system of patrolling the feud counties on the order of the plan followed by the Texan Rangers. The proposed rangers are to be assigned to certain districts and patrol them as policemen patrol their beats.

Leading professional and business men from all over Eastern Kentucky are behind the movement, which, however, is being opposed by the newspapers here, on the ground that enough lawlessness does not exist to make the rangers necessary.

Banks Closed.

To-day being Columbus Day, a legal holiday, under the laws of the state, all of the banks in the city will be closed the entire day.

Shocked Europe.

Kaiser William, of Germany, has shocked royalty by declaring his daughter Louise: "She shall marry whom she loves and be happy. I shall not play politics with my only daughter. The royal precedent shall have no bearing on her marriage."

The daughter in whose future happiness the busy and careladen

German emperor may concern is just completed. She is the only one in the world, her father on her seven-anniversary, is an excellent and an accomplished versed in all the arts of
